ABOUT THE COURSE

Workshop on Hazard Prediction Training (KYT) for Zero-accident is the activity which basically comes from Japan. This is the most popular and effective technique to achieve zero-accident status at workplace.

Each and every individual human being is irreplaceable. Nobody deserves to get injured or die. The basis of the workshop on Hazard Prediction for Zero-accident is for all workers from top management to industrial employees to take steps on preemptive action for safety and health issues so that nobody on the worksite gets injured; and to solve dangers and problems in the workplace with the participation of all workers.

The workshop is based on the technique to find, recognize and solve hidden hazards in the workplace while working. This KYT technique employs team methods and illustrations. The goal of the training technique is to increase each worker's sensitivity and concentration regarding hazards, and problem solving ability and enthusiasm for applying skills through repeated practice.

This 2-days "Workshop on Hazard Prediction Technique for Zero Accident (KYT-Japanese Techniques)" has been designed by NSC to create a bright and cheerful climate in the workplace based on the philosophy of respecting all human life as irreplaceable.
